

FEMINISM: Is it really about "equality", or is it a male-hating, heterophobic, family-destroying cult based on Marxism and Gynocentrism? (A compilation of quotes by Jason Dale with updated and expanded introduction – 25th September 2015)

Erin Pizzey; English family care activist, tireless advocate for both men and women's rights and founder of one of the first internationally recognized women's refuges in the world once said that "Family life was and always will be the foundation of any civilization. Destroy the family and you destroy the country" (From Erin Pizzey's essay "The Planned Destruction of the Family").

Central to the survival of the family and the raising of good, responsible, productive, mentally astute and emotionally healthy children who will carry forward the beacon of humanity into the future is the relationship between man and woman, father and mother, husband and wife, partner and partner. Whatever your gender, ethnicity, culture and personal beliefs may be; there can surely be no greater gift for our children than the living example of two biological parents who mutually love, respect and support one another in a nurturing and protective home and family environment.

It must be emphatically stated at this juncture that the author of this article and compilation has no regard whatsoever for "political correctness". Contrary to the sentiments aggressively promoted by the Feminist movement; homosexuality is NOT a natural alternative nor is it a replacement for heterosexual relationships between men and women. Indeed, as the evidence presented shall clearly demonstrate; homosexuality, promiscuity and sexual debauchery are the primary tools used by Feminism to divide men and women and to create a destabilized society where children are raised and indoctrinated by the state and not by their parents. As pointed out by filmmaker, producer and activist Aaron Russo; the Women's Liberation Movement during the 1960's and 1970's was funded by the Rockefeller Foundation with the express goal to destabilize society, tax women and usher in a new world order. Indeed, the Central Investigation Agency ("CIA") actively used Feminism and feminist propaganda outlets like Ms. Magazine to aid in that agenda. Far from being liberated from an allegedly oppressive male "patriarchy", women will be enslaved alongside men with institutionalized propaganda, escalating state power and spiralling debt.

Feminism is both a champion and a sock puppet for cultural Marxism, and unsurprisingly; truth will become the first casualty – either by distortion or by omission – and universities, schools and corporate/government funded media outlets will all help to make that happen. The Declaration of Feminism cited below openly advocates for the abandonment of men, the destruction of marriage, the practice of witchcraft and the rewriting of history according to a Marxist narrative (Lehmann & Sullinger, 1971). With the relentless digitization of printed material in the information age and beyond, the author will not be surprised if works such as "Sex and Culture" (Joseph Daniel Unwin, 1934) eventually disappear. After all, Unwin studied 80 primitive tribes and 6 known civilizations through 5,000 years of history and found a "positive correlation between the cultural achievement of a people and the sexual restraint they observe" (Huxley, Aldous, 1946. "Ethics.", In: Ends and Means. London: Chatto & Windus, pages. 311–12). Unwin also pointed out that increasing levels of sexual liberation will bring with it an irrevocable loss of social cohesiveness, impetus and purpose (Unwin, J.D., 1927. "Monogamy as a Condition of Social Energy," The Hibbert Journal, Vol. XXV, page 662). Novelist and author Aldous Huxley described "Sex and Culture" as a work of "utmost importance". Needless to say, Unwin's findings throw mud in the face of Feminist claims.

For decades, Erin Pizzey has opposed and challenged the divisive and bigoted cornerstone of Feminist doctrine which portrays the entire male gender class as a domineering, exploitative and abusive bourgeoisie seeking to perpetually victimize and oppress the helpless female gender proletariat. And of course, males are discouraged and even barred from taking an active role in any discussion about gender politics or gender relations, a trend which can be traced back to the birth of the Women's Suffrage Movement well over a century and a half ago (Seneca Falls Convention, 1848). It is noteworthy to mention that the early Suffragettes were not foreign to the anti-male tactics of their contemporary Feminist counterparts. Tellingly, they played an active role in the White Feather Campaign of World War I which sought to publicly humiliate military age men and even boys for not being in military uniform and serving their country, and in so doing highlighted the perpetual unholy alliance between the state and divisive ideologies.

Feminism also rides on the shoulders of much older giants than Marxism or the early Woman's Suffrage movement. As researcher and activist Peter Wright thoroughly and brilliantly documents on his website gynocentrism.com; the “dominant or exclusive focus on [females] in theory or practice” (“gynocentrism”) can be traced back to 12th century Europe. Overwhelmingly, notable academic C.S. Lewis describes this social revolution as a “feudalisation of love” which by comparison renders the European Renaissance “a mere ripple on the surface of literature”. (1936, C.S. Lewis. “The Allegory of Love”, chapter 1).

Like Erin and perhaps like many of you; I have often (quite ironically) been told by my detractors that “Not All Feminists Are Like That! (NAFALT)”. Somehow, challenging or disagreeing with Feminism has become synonymous with hating women and hating “equality”. Yet the true nature of any socio-political movement is not defined by propaganda or by manipulated dictionary definitions, but rather by the actions and by the words and ideas expressed in speech and writing by that movement’s most vocal, celebrated and influential leaders and adherents across the history of its movement.

People ultimately become what they “worship” or believe, and Feminism’s most vocal, celebrated and influential leaders and adherents will play the greatest role in shaping the belief systems and actions of many of its followers. After all, actions are driven by underlying beliefs. As a human thinketh and feel, so shall the human do, and so shall the human become. Moreover, beliefs and cultural narratives don’t have to be factual or “true” in order to take root in the minds of humans. After all, as individuals like Lenin, Hitler and Goebbels understood; a lie which is repeated often enough eventually gets widely accepted as truth.

With this understanding in mind; the man as powerful perpetrator and woman as powerless victim narrative is demonstrably central to the Feminist doctrine (underscored by Feminism’s giant predecessors), and this belief and narrative has not only fostered animosity and resentment between the genders but ultimately threatens to tear apart the very sacred fabric which holds society together – the family.

The list of declarations and quotations which appears below is shocking and mind-blowing. I invested countless hours in researching, fact-checking and cross referencing these declarations and quotes in hopes of achieving the highest level of accuracy possible, but I also found myself doing so because I was frozen in awe and could not believe what my eyes were reading.

If there are any amongst you who believe that Feminism is a benign movement advocating for women’s rights and equality between the genders, I would encourage you to consider these declarations and quotations carefully and reconsider your position. I would also encourage you in the same breath to do your own research rather than blindly believe what you read or are told by others, regardless of their individual persuasion. Ultimately, if something really is factual and true, then extensive research and critical thought will reveal and prove them to be factual and true, regardless of popular sentiment or individual bias. It is my fervent hope that the extensive referencing which I have included together with the declarations and quotes below will be useful for establishing the real facts and the actual truth for yourself.

The key to finding better answers is to continually master the art and science of asking better questions.

I will leave you with a simple question.

If Feminism is about “equality”, then would the most powerful feminist groups and organizations even remain silent about these declarations and quotations from some of their most vocal, celebrated and influential leaders and adherents, much less promote them?

To conclude this introductory passage, I certainly don’t claim this list of declarations and quotations is “complete” and/or up to date. Such an endeavour would be impossible with my personal resources and time. It is therefore my encouragement and hope that my work will be carefully studied, improved upon, updated, expanded and carried forward for future generations to learn and remember. After all, those who do not study history tend to be the very people who repeat it. I also encourage you to celebrate families, love and unity between men and women as this is surely your most effective weapon against a genderless, colourless and profoundly destructive enemy.

“[Sir Isaac Newton’s Principia Mathematica] is a ‘Rape Manual’” -- Professor Sandra G. Harding (Professor of Education and Gender studies (UCLA), Professor of Philosophy (Michigan State University), “The Science Question in Feminism”, 1986)

“ $E=mc^2$  characterized as a] ‘sexed equation’ because ‘it privileges the speed of light over other speeds that are vitally necessary to us.’” -- Luce Irigaray (French Feminist, philosopher, linguist, psycholinguist, psychoanalyst, sociologist, cultural theorist, “Internet Encyclopaedia of Philosophy”)

“Marriage has existed for the benefit of men; and has been a legally sanctioned method of control over women.... We must work to destroy it. The end of the institution of marriage is a necessary condition for the liberation of women. Therefore it is important for us to encourage women to leave their husbands and not to live individually with men.... All of history must be re-written in terms of oppression of women. We must go back to ancient female religions like witchcraft.” -- Nancy Lehmann and Helen Sullinger (“The Declaration of Feminism”, November 1971 [some sources cite June 1971], distributed in print via Post Office Box 7064, Powderhorn Station, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55407)

“The institution of marriage is the chief vehicle for the perpetuation of the oppression of women; it is through the role of wife that the subjugation of women is maintained. In a very real way the role of wife has been the genesis of women’s rebellion throughout history.” -- Marlene Dixon (Radical feminist, Professor of Sociology, University of Chicago, “Why Women’s Liberation? Racism and Male supremacy”, <http://www.heritage.org/research/reports/2003/06/why-congress-should-ignore-radical-feminist-opposition-to-marriage#pgfld-1033772>)

“Women’s Liberation, if not the most extreme, then certainly the most influential New Marxist movement in America, had done to the American home what communism did to the Russian economy, and most of the ruin is irreversible. By defining relations between men and women in terms of power and competition instead of reciprocity and cooperation, the movement tore apart the most basic and fragile contract in human society, the unit from which all other social institutions draw their strength” -- Professor Ruth Wisse (Martin Peretz professor of Yiddish Literature and Professor of Comparative Literature at Harvard University, Washington Times, February 11, 1997, p. A17.)

“The first condition for the liberation of the wife is to bring the whole female sex back into public industry, and this in turn demands that the characteristic of the monogamous family as the economic unit of society must be abolished” -- Friedrich Engels (Co-author of 1848 “Communist Manifesto” together with Karl Marx, “Origin of the family, Private Property and the State”, 1884 (Published in English in 1902))

“The first class opposition that appears in history coincides with the development of the antagonism between man and woman in monogamous marriage, and the first class oppression coincides with that of the female sex by the male” -- Frederick Engels, (Co-author of 1848 “Communist Manifesto” together with Karl Marx, “The Origins of the Family, Private Property and the State”, 1884 (Published in English in 1902))

“Anyone who knows anything of history knows that great social changes are impossible without feminine ferment. Social progress can be measured exactly by the social position of the fair sex, the ugly ones included” -- Karl Marx (Co-author of the 1848 Communist Manifesto, Marx-Engels Correspondence 1868)

“Feminism, Socialism, and Communism are one in the same, and Socialist/Communist government is the goal of feminism.” -- Professor Catharine A. MacKinnon (American feminist, scholar, lawyer (Professor of Law at University of Michigan), teacher and activist, “Toward a Feminist Theory of the State”, First Harvard University Press, 1989, p. 10)

"The only way to win liberation is to make men miserable so they will have no peace until women are free" -
- Professor Pat Mainardi (A pioneering professor of Women's Studies as well as a leading authority on nineteenth-century European art and American modernism, words spoken by her at "Feminists Of New York Conference", September 13, 1972)

"Who cares how men feel or what they do or whether they suffer? They have had over 2000 years to dominate and made a complete hash of it. Now it is our turn. My only comment to men is, if you don't like it, bad luck -- and if you get in my way I'll run you down." -- (Signed: Liberated Woman, Boronia Herald-Sun, Melbourne, Australia - 9 February 1996)

"Ninety-five percent of women's experiences are about being a victim. Or about being an underdog, or having to survive... women didn't go to Vietnam and blow things up. They are not Rambo..." -- Jodie Foster (Famous American actress, New York Times magazine)

"Number 10: Regularly beat him on the head with your shoe." -- Sharon Stone (Famous American Actress, David Letterman, "presenting the top-ten list of keeping your man")

"Since marriage constitutes slavery for women, it is clear that the women's movement must concentrate on attacking this institution. Freedom for women cannot be won without the abolition of marriage." -- Sheila Cronin (Leader of the feminist organization N.O.W. (National Organization for Women), member of the radical feminist group The Redstockings, "Radical Feminism", Marriage, (1970), Koedt, Levine, and Rapone, eds., HarperCollins, 1973, p. 219)

"Women are an oppressed class. Our oppression is total, affecting every facet of our lives. We are exploited as sex objects, breeders, domestic servants, and cheap labor. We are considered inferior beings, whose only purpose is to enhance men's lives. Our humanity is denied. Our prescribed behavior is enforced by the threat of physical violence." -- ("Red Stockings Manifesto", Redstockings of the Women's Liberation Movement, chapter II, <http://redstockings.org/index.php/42-uncategorised/76-rs-manifesto>)

"We identify the agents of our oppression as men. Male supremacy is the oldest, most basic form of domination. All other forms of exploitation and oppression (racism, capitalism, imperialism, etc.) are extensions of male supremacy: men dominate women, a few men dominate the rest. All power structures throughout history have been male-dominated and male-oriented. Men have controlled all political, economic and cultural institutions and backed up this control with physical force. They have used their power to keep women in an inferior position. All men receive economic, sexual, and psychological benefits from male supremacy. All men have oppressed women" -- ("Red Stockings Manifesto", Redstockings of the Women's Liberation Movement, chapter III, <http://redstockings.org/index.php/42-uncategorised/76-rs-manifesto>)

"We regard our personal experience, and our feelings about that experience, as the basis for an analysis of our common situation. We cannot rely on existing ideologies as they are all products of male supremacist culture. We question every generalization and accept none that are not confirmed by our experience" -- ("Red Stockings Manifesto", Redstockings of the Women's Liberation Movement, chapter V, <http://redstockings.org/index.php/42-uncategorised/76-rs-manifesto>)

"We can't destroy the inequities between men and women until we destroy marriage" -- Robin Morgan (Ms. Magazine Editor, American poet, author, political theorist and activist, journalist, lecturer, and former child actor, "Sisterhood Is Powerful", (ed), 1970, p. 537)

"Sexism is NOT the fault of women -- kill your fathers, not your mothers" -- Robin Morgan (Ms. Magazine Editor, American poet, author, political theorist and activist, journalist, lecturer, and former child actor, "Goodbye to All That", 1970 in "Going Too Far: The Personal Chronicle of a Feminist", p 126)

“...rape is the perfected act of male sexuality in a patriarchal culture -- it is the ultimate metaphor for domination, violence, subjugation, and possession.” -- Robin Morgan, (Ms. Magazine Editor, American poet, author, political theorist and activist, journalist, lecturer, and former child actor, “Sisterhood Is Powerful: An Anthology of Writings from the Women's Liberation Movement”, Vintage, 1970)

“Women’s liberation, if it abolishes the patriarchal family, will abolish a necessary substructure of the authoritarian state, and once that withers away Marx will have come true willy-nilly, so let’s get on with it.” -- Germaine Greer (Australian academic and writer, regarded as one of the major voices of the second-wave feminist movement in the latter half of the 20th century, “The Female Eunuch ‘Revolution’”, 1970)

“I’m a liberation feminist, not an equality feminist. Equality is a profoundly conservative aim and it won’t achieve anything.” -- Germaine Greer (Australian academic and writer, regarded as one of the major voices of the second-wave feminist movement in the latter half of the 20th century, words spoken to Martha Kearney, Hay Festival 2015, Saturday 23 May 2015)

“In order to raise children with equality, we must take them away from families and communally raise them.” -- Dr. Mary Jo Bane (Feminist and assistant professor of education at Wellesley College and associate director of the school's Center for Research on Woman, Assistant Secretary of Administration for Children and Families at the US Department of Health and Human Services, 1993-1996, quoted in “The Family: It’s Surviving and Healthy” by Dolores Barclay, Tulsa World, August 21, 1977)

“How will the family unit be destroyed? ... the demand alone will throw the whole ideology of the family into question, so that women can begin establishing a community of work with each other and we can fight collectively. Women will feel freer to leave their husbands and become economically independent, either through a job or welfare.” -- Roxanne Dunbar (Female liberation activist, “Female Liberation as the Basis for Social Revolution”, New England Free Press, 1974)

“The nuclear family must be destroyed, and people must find better ways of living together. Whatever its ultimate meaning, the break-up of families now is an objectively revolutionary process. Families have supported oppression by separating people into small, isolated units, unable to join together to fight for common interests.” – Professor Linda Gordon (Feminist scholar and New York University history professor, “Function of the Family, WOMEN: A Journal of Liberation”, Fall, 1969)

“Let's forget about the mythical Jesus and look for encouragement, solace, and inspiration from real women ... Two thousand years of patriarchal rule under the shadow of the cross ought to be enough to turn women toward the feminist 'salvation' of this world.” -- Annie Laurie Gaylor (Co-founder of Freedom From Religion Foundation, "Feminist Salvation," The Humanist, p. 37, July/August 1988)

"In WAS's world [Women Against Sex], men's sexuality is mean and violent... But the crazy words of this missive began to mix with a voice of my own, a voice scratchy from disuse, holding back some long unacknowledged feelings. I realized that a part of me still looks at the world as I did back in 1971 - as us and Them. It feels as wounded by men as the WAS woman do. It fears men and is threatened by their bodies. It suspects that heterosexuality is a golden trap, a pleasure compulsion somehow conditioned against women's better interests ... I feel what they feel: man-hating, that volatile admixture of pity, contempt, disgust, envy, alienation, fear and rage at men." -- Judith Levine (Author of "My Enemy, My Love: Women, Masculinity, and the Dilemmas of Gender", 2003)

"To call a man an animal is to flatter him; he's a machine, a walking dildo" -- Valerie Solanas (Radical feminist and writer, "S.C.U.M. Manifesto", 1967)

"The male likes death--it excites him sexually and, already dead inside, he wants to die... The male is, by his very nature, a leech, an emotional parasite and, therefore, not ethically entitled to live, as no one has the right to live at someone else's expense." -- Valerie Solanas (Radical feminist and writer, "S.C.U.M. Manifesto", 1967)

"[Males should] "...go off to the nearest friendly suicide center where they will be quickly and painlessly gassed to death." -- Valerie Solanas (Radical feminist and writer, "S.C.U.M. Manifesto", 1967)

"Life in this society being, at best, an utter bore and no aspect of society being at all relevant to women, there remains to civic-minded, responsible, thrill-seeking females only to overthrow the government, eliminate the money system, institute complete automation, and destroy the male sex." -- Valerie Solanas (Radical feminist and writer, "S.C.U.M. Manifesto", 1967)

"I feel that 'man-hating' is an honourable and viable political act, that the oppressed have a right to class-hatred against the class that is oppressing them" -- Robin Morgan (Ms. Magazine Editor, American poet, author, political theorist and activist, journalist, lecturer, and former child actor, "Going Too Far: The Personal Chronicle of a Feminist", p 178 )

"I've always wanted to see a man beaten to a shit bloody pulp with a high-heeled shoe stuffed up his mouth, sort of the pig with the apple; it would be good to put him on a serving plate but you'd need good silver" -- Andrea Dworkin (Radical feminist and writer, "Mercy", 1990)

"Under patriarchy, every women's son is her potential betrayer and also the inevitable rapist or exploiter of another woman" -- Andrea Dworkin (Radical feminist and writer, "Our Blood", 1976)

"[heterosexuality] institutionalizes male sexual dominance and female sexual submission" -- Professor Catharine A. MacKinnon (American feminist, scholar, lawyer (Professor of Law at University of Michigan), teacher and activist , "Toward a Feminist Theory of State", 1989)

"Heterosexuality is a die-hard custom through which male-supremacist institutions insure their own perpetuity and control over us. Women are kept, maintained and contained through terror, violence, and the spray of semen...[Lesbianism is] an ideological, political and philosophical means of liberation of all women from heterosexual tyranny..." -- Cheryl Clarke (Feminist, poet, author and recipient of The Annual Kessler Award for 2013, "Words of Fire: An Anthology of African-American Feminist Thought", 1995, "Lesbianism, An Act of Resistance," in "This Bridge Called My Back: Writing by Radical Women of Color", Women of Color Press, 1983, pp.128-137)

"The simple fact is that every woman must be willing to be identified as a lesbian to be fully feminist." -- Sheila Cronin (Leader of the feminist organization N.O.W. (the National Organization for Women), member of the radical feminist group The Redstockings, National Organization for Women Times, January 1988)

"Heterosexuality like motherhood, needs to be recognized and studied as a political institution. . .the model for every other form of exploitation" -- Adrienne C. Rich (American poet, essayist and feminist, credited with being one of the most widely read and influential poets of the second half of the 20th century by Anthology of Modern American Poetry, "Compulsory Heterosexuality and Lesbian Existence," Signs: Journal of Women in Culture and Society, 5 No.4 (1980) 637)

"Women are socially disadvantaged in controlling sexual access to their bodies through socialization to customs that define a woman's body as for sexual use by men. Sexual access is regularly forced or pressured or routinized beyond denial" -- Professor Catharine A. MacKinnon (American feminist, scholar, lawyer (Professor of Law at University of Michigan), teacher and activist, "Reflections on Sex Equality under Law", March 1991, The Yale Law Journal, Vol. 100 number 5: 1281)

"In a patriarchal society, all heterosexual intercourse is rape because women, as a group, are not strong enough to give meaningful consent" -- Daphne Patai and Noretta Koertge ("Professing Feminism – Education and Indoctrination in Women's Studies", 1994, 2003 (expanded edition), this is given as the author's characterization of Professor Catharine A. MacKinnon 's views rather than a direct quotation. However, the characterization is consistent with other direct statements made by MacKinnon)

"AIDS education will not get very far until young men are taught how not to rape young women and how to eroticize trust and consent; and until young women are supported in the way they need to be redefining their desires" -- Naomi Wolf ("The Beauty Myth", p. 55.)

"Masculinity cannot exist without femininity. On its own, masculinity has no meaning, because it is but one half of a set of power relations. Masculinity pertains to male dominance as femininity pertains to female subordination." -- Sheila Jeffrys (Writes and teaches in the areas of sexual politics, international gender politics, and lesbian and gay politics, "Unpacking Queer Politics: A Lesbian Feminist Perspective", 2003)

"Radical feminist theorists do not seek to make gender a bit more flexible, but to eliminate it. They are gender abolitionists, and understand gender to provide the framework and rationale for male dominance. In the radical feminist approach, masculinity is the behaviour of the male ruling class and femininity is the behaviour of the subordinate class of women. Thus gender can have no place in the egalitarian future that feminism aims to create" -- Sheila Jeffrys (Writes and teaches in the areas of sexual politics, international gender politics, and lesbian and gay politics, "Gender Hurts: A Feminist Analysis of the Politics of Transgenderism", 2014)

"The opposite of heterosexual desire is the eroticising of sameness, a sameness of power, equality and mutuality. It is homosexual desire." – Sheila Jeffrys (Writes and teaches in the areas of sexual politics, international gender politics, and lesbian and gay politics, "Anticlimax: A Feminist Perspective on the Sexual Revolution", London: Women's Press, 1990, p.300)

"The act which men commonly perform on prostituted women is penis-in-vagina sexual intercourse. There is nothing 'natural' about that act" -- Sheila Jeffrys (Writes and teaches in the areas of sexual politics, international gender politics, and lesbian and gay politics, "The Idea of Prostitution", 2008)

"When a woman reaches orgasm with a man she is only collaborating with the patriarchal system, eroticizing her own oppression" -- Sheila Jeffrys (Writes and teaches in the areas of sexual politics, international gender politics, and lesbian and gay politics, quoted on http://thinkexist.com/quotation/when\_a\_woman\_reaches\_orgasm\_with\_a\_man\_she\_is/188183.html)

"Female heterosexuality is not a biological drive or an individual women's erotic attraction or attachment to another human animal which happens to be male. Female heterosexuality is a set of social institutions and practices... Those definitions... are about the oppression and exploitation of women [by men]." -- Marilyn Frye (Notable American philosopher and feminist theorist. She is known for her work on sexism, racism, oppression, and sexuality. "Willful Virgin: Essays in Feminism", 1976-1992 Freedom: Crossing Press, 1992 p.132)

"Without (hetero)sexual abuse, (hetero)sexual harassment and the (hetero)sexualization of every aspect of female bodies and behaviors, there would not be patriarchy, and whatever other forms or materialization of oppression might exist, they would not have the shapes, boundaries and dynamics of the racism, nationalism, and so on that we are now familiar with." -- Marilyn Frye (Notable American philosopher and feminist theorist. She is known for her work on sexism, racism, oppression, and sexuality. "The institution of sexual intercourse is anti-feminist" -- Ti-Grace Atkinson (Feminist author and philosopher, born into a prominent Louisiana family and founder of "Feminists—A Political Organization to Annihilate Sex Roles", quoted from "Amazon Odyssey", pg 86)

"No woman should be authorized to stay at home and raise her children. Society should be totally different. Women should not have that choice, precisely because if there is such a choice, too many women will make that one." -- Simone de Beauvoir (French writer, intellectual, existentialist philosopher, political activist, feminist and social theorist, "Sex, Society, and the Female Dilemma" Saturday Review, June 14, 1975)

"The care of children ..is infinitely better left to the best trained practitioners of both sexes who have chosen it as a vocation...[This] would further undermine family structure while contributing to the freedom of women." -- Katherine Murray "Kate" Millet (Feminist writer, educator, artist, and activist. She attended Oxford University and was the first American woman to be awarded a postgraduate degree with first-class honors by St. Hilda's. Quoted from "Sexual Politics" 178-179)

"The married woman knows that love is, at its best, an inadequate reward for her unnecessary and bizarre heritage of oppression." -- Beverly Jones and Judith Brown (Radical Feminists, "Toward a Female Liberation Movement", Gainesville, Florida, June 1968, p. 23)

"I propose that the phenomenon of love is the psychological pivot in the persecution of women." -- Ti-Grace Atkinson (Feminist author and philosopher, born into a prominent Louisiana family and founder of "Feminists—A Political Organization to Annihilate Sex Roles", "Radical Feminism and Love", 1974)

"The proportion of men must be reduced to and maintained at approximately 10% of the human race" -- Sally Miller Gearhart (Feminist, Science Fiction writer, Political Activist, "The Future – If there is one – Is Female", 1981)

"Why have any men at all?" (Feminist, Science Fiction writer, Political Activist, "The Future – If there is one – Is Female", 1981)

"[T]here must be a decontamination of the Earth. I think this will be accompanied by an evolutionary process that will result in a drastic reduction of the population of males." – Professor Mary Daly [Born 'Daly Circa'] (Feminist philosopher, academic, theologian, Interview, Susan Bridle, "No Man's Land", EnlightenNext magazine, Fall-Winter 1999)

"Men who are unjustly accused of rape can sometimes gain from the experience" – TIME Magazine's euphemism of actual comments made by Catherine Commins (Nancy Gibbs, June 2001, "Cover Stories Behavior: When Is It RAPE?")

"[Men falsely accused of rape] "They have a lot of pain, but it is not a pain that I would necessarily have spared them. I think it ideally initiates a process of self-exploration. 'How do I see women?' 'If I didn't violate her, could I have?' 'Do I have the potential to do to her what they say I did?' Those are good questions." -- Catherine Commins (Vassar College Assistant Dean of Student Life in Time, June 3, 1991, p. 52)

"I think it's arrogance and ingrained male privilege." -- Laura Dunn (Executive Director of SurvJustice, responding to the suggestion that men should have a right to a fair hearing when women accuse them of rape)

"[Rape] is nothing more or less than a conscious process of intimidation by which all men keep all women in a state of fear." -- Susan Brownmiller (Radical feminist, writer, "Against Our Will: Men, Women and Rape", Secker & Warburg, 1975, p. 6)

"We live in a culture that condones and celebrates rape. Within a phallogentric, patriarchal state the rape of women by men is a ritual that daily perpetuates and maintains sexist oppression and exploitation. We cannot hope to transform "rape culture" without committing ourselves fully to resisting and eradicating patriarchy." -- Bell Hooks ("Seduced by Violence No More," in Stan, Adele ed. Debating Sexual Correctness, New York, 1995, pg 231)

"Men, as a group, tend to be abusive, either verbally, sexually or emotionally. There are always the exceptions, but they are few and far between" -- FEMISA post

"All men are good for is F***ing, and running over with a truck". -- Quoted by Richard Dinsmore (This was said by a feminist University of Maine administrator, culled from evidence submitted in a discrimination lawsuit filed by a male student).

"Considering the nature and pervasiveness of men's violence, I would say that without question, children are better off being raised without the presence of men." -- FEMISA post ("Heterophobia", Daphne Patai, 1998)

"I do want to be able to explain to a 9-year-old boy in terms he will understand why I think it's OK for girls to wear shirts that revel in their superiority over boys." -- Treena Shapiro (Feminist writer, Advertiser Columnist, "Making fun of boys totally fair", 2006, <http://the.honoluluadvertiser.com/article/2006/Jan/03/il/FP601030304.html>)

"Whatever they may be in public life, whatever their relations with men, in their relations with women, all men are rapists and that's all they are. They rape us with their eyes, their laws, their codes." -- Marilyn French (Feminist author, radical feminist, writer, advisor to Al Gore's 2000 Presidential campaign, "The Women's Room", 1977)

"In personal and public life, in kitchen, bedroom and halls of parliament, men wage unremitting war against women." -- Marilyn French (Feminist author, radical feminist, writer, advisor to Al Gore's 2000 Presidential campaign, "The War Against Women", Ballantine Books, 1992, p. 196)

"My feelings about men are the result of my experience. I have little sympathy for them. Like a Jew just released from Dachau, I watch the handsome young Nazi soldier fall writhing to the ground with a bullet in his stomach and I look briefly and walk on. I don't even need to shrug. I simply don't care. What he was, as a person, I mean, what his shames and yearnings were, simply don't matter" -- Marilyn French (Feminist author, radical feminist, writer, advisor to Al Gore's 2000 Presidential campaign, "The Women's Room", 1977)

"He can beat or kill the woman he claims to love; he can rape women...he can sexually molest his daughters... THE VAST MAJORITY OF MEN IN THE WORLD DO ONE OR MORE OF THE ABOVE." -- Marilyn French (Feminist author, radical feminist, writer, advisor to Al Gore's 2000 Presidential campaign, her emphasis, "The Women's Room", 1977)

"Probably the only place where a man can feel really secure is in a maximum security prison, except for the imminent threat of release" -- Germaine Greer (Australian academic and writer, regarded as one of the major voices of the second-wave feminist movement in the latter half of the 20th century, "The Female Eunuch", 2002)

"Men are from another planet, sent here by spaceships to copulate with female earthlings and propagate the species—a task for which science has rendered them all but redundant. We need keep only a handful of donors on a sperm farm for that purpose, where they can subsist on pizza and beer and Playboy magazine" -- Rose DiManno (Toronto Star, January 11, 1999, p. 31)

"I haven't the faintest notion what possible revolutionary role white hetero- sexual men could fulfill, since they are the very embodiment of reactionary- vested-interest-power. But then, I have great difficulty examining what men in general could possibly do about all this. In addition to doing the shitwork that women have been doing for generations, possibly not exist? No, I really don't mean that. Yes, I really do." - Robin Morgan (Ms. Magazine Editor, American poet, author, political theorist and activist, journalist, lecturer, and former child actor, as quoted in "The Land of Whores and Honey", Dante B. Kun, 2015)

"I believe that women have a capacity for understanding and compassion which man structurally does not have, does not have it because he cannot have it. He's just incapable of it" -- Hon. Barbara Jordan (Judge and former congresswoman, Women's Political Symposium, 1991 [?])

"Until now it has been thought that the level of testosterone in men is normal simply because they have it. But if you consider how abnormal their behavior is, then you are led to the hypothesis that almost all men are suffering from 'testosterone poisoning'" -- (The Feminist Dictionary Pandora Press)

"We are, as a sex, infinitely superior to men" -- Elizabeth Cady Stanton (early suffragist, "One Woman, One Vote: Rediscovering the Woman Suffrage Movement", Wheeler, NewSage Press, 1995, p.58)

"The male is a domestic animal which, if treated with firmness...can be trained to do most things." -- Jilly Cooper (S.C.U.M. Manifesto. 1967)

"There is, of course, no reason for the existence of the male sex except that sometimes one needs help with moving the piano" -- Rebecca West (English novelist and journalist, Sunday Telegraph, 28 June 1970)

"If the classroom situation is very heteropatriarchal--a large beginning class of 50 to 60 students, say, with few feminist students--I am likely to define my task as largely one of recruitment...of persuading students that women are oppressed" -- Professor Joyce Trebilcot (Washington State University, as quoted in "Who Stole Feminism: How Women Have Betrayed Women", Dr. Christina Hoff Sommers, 1994)

"Housewives are dependent creatures who are still children – parasites" -- Gloria Steinem (Feminist, journalist, and social and political activist who became nationally recognized as a leader and spokeswoman for the Feminist movement in the late 1960s and early 70s, "What It Would Be Like If Women Win," Time, August 31, 1970)

"Only when manhood is dead - and it will perish when ravaged femininity no longer sustains it - only then will we know what it is to be free." -- Andrea Dworkin (Radical feminist and writer, "The Root Cause," speech, 26 Sept. 1975, at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, "Our Blood", ch. 9, 1976)

"I have a great deal of difficulty with the idea of the ideal man. As far as I'm concerned, men are the product of a damaged gene" -- Germaine Greer (Australian academic and writer, regarded as one of the major voices of the second-wave feminist movement in the latter half of the 20th century, "Untamed Shrew", 2001)

"And if the professional rapist is to be separated from the average dominant heterosexual [male], it may be mainly a quantitative difference." -- Susan Griffin (Radical Feminist, writer, "Rape: The All-American Crime", Ramparts 10, September 1971, pp. 26-35)

"And in the spectrum of male behavior, rape, the perfect combination of sex and violence, is the penultimate [sic] act. Erotic pleasure cannot be separated from culture, and in our culture male eroticism is wedded to power" -- Susan Griffin (Radical Feminist, writer, Rape: The Politics of Consciousness, Harper & Row, 1979)

"[Men are] freaks of nature... full of queer obsessions about fetishistic activities and fantasy goals." -- Germaine Greer (Australian academic and writer, regarded as one of the major voices of the second-wave feminist movement in the latter half of the 20th century, "The Whole Woman", Knopf, 1999)

"You grow up with your father holding you down and covering your mouth so another man can make a horrible searing pain between your legs" – Professor Catharine A. MacKinnon (American feminist, scholar, lawyer (Professor of Law at University of Michigan), teacher and activist, "Only Words", 1993, pp. 3-7)

"Men are nicotine soaked, beer besmirched, whiskey greased, red-eyed devils." -- Carrie (Or Carry) Amelia Moore Nation (Temperance advocate, found in a Diary entry after her death on June the 9th 1911)

"It would be better to lynch a thousand negroes than for a white woman to lose her most cherished possession." -- Rebecca Latimer Felton (American Suffragist, "At the Hands of Persons Unknown: The Lynching of Black America, p. 125, Modern Library 2003)

"Sexuality is to feminism what work is to Marxism" – Professor Catharine A. MacKinnon (American feminist, scholar, lawyer (Professor of Law at University of Michigan), teacher and activist, "Toward a Feminist Theory of the State", First Harvard University Press, 1989, p. 3)

"Differences [between men and women], including the products of social inequality, make unequal treatment not unequal at all." – Professor Catharine MacKinnon (American feminist, scholar, lawyer)

(Professor of Law at University of Michigan), teacher and activist, "Reflection on Sex Equality Under Law", Yale Law Journal, 1991)

"Compare victims' reports of rape with women's reports of sex. They look a lot alike.... [T]he major distinction between intercourse (normal) and rape (abnormal) is that the normal happens so often that one cannot get anyone to see anything wrong with it." -- Professor Catharine A. MacKinnon (American feminist, scholar, lawyer (Professor of Law at University of Michigan), teacher and activist, quoted in Christina Hoff Sommers, "Hard-Line Feminists Guilty of Ms.-Representation," Wall Street Journal, November 7, 1991)

"Politically, I call it rape whenever a woman has sex and feels violated." -- Professor Catharine A. MacKinnon (American feminist, scholar, lawyer (Professor of Law at University of Michigan), teacher and activist, "A Rally Against Rape, 1981, p. 82)

"Look to your left, look to your right, look in front of you, and look behind you. Statistics tell us you have just laid eyes on someone guilty of sexual assault." -- Professor Catharine A. MacKinnon (American feminist, scholar, lawyer (Professor of Law at University of Michigan), teacher and activist, Commencement Speech given to Yale University, 1990)

"Feminism is built on believing women's accounts of sexual use and abuse by men." -- Professor Catharine A. MacKinnon (American feminist, scholar, lawyer (Professor of Law at University of Michigan), teacher and activist, "Feminism Unmodified", 1987)

"God is going to change. We women are going to bring about an end to God... we will change the world so much that He won't fit anymore" -- Professor Naomi Goldenberg (Member of the Faculty of Graduate and Postdoctoral Studies and thereby authorized to supervise theses and Full Professor, Department of Classics and Religious Studies, "Changing of the Gods: Feminism and the End of Traditional Religions", quoted at beginning of "From Father God to Mother Earth". "MARXIST FEMINISM'S RUINED LIVES" (Mallory Millett, September 1st, 2014)
<http://www.frontpagemag.com/fpm/240037/marxist-feminisms-ruined-lives-mallory-millett>

Chants from a "consciousness-raising-group" which took place in 1969, attended by Katherine Murray
"Kate" Millett (Feminist writer, educator, artist, activist and author of "Sexual Politics", 1970) and Lila Karp; also a well known Feminist writer, educator and activist.

"Why are we here today?" she asked.

"To make revolution," they answered.

"What kind of revolution?" she replied.

"The Cultural Revolution," they chanted.

"And how do we make Cultural Revolution?" she demanded.

"By destroying the American family!" they answered.

"How do we destroy the family?" she came back.

"By destroying the American Patriarch," they cried exuberantly.

"And how do we destroy the American Patriarch?" she replied.

"By taking away his power!"

"How do we do that?"

"By destroying monogamy!" they shouted.

"How can we destroy monogamy?"

"By promoting promiscuity, eroticism, prostitution and homosexuality"
